Damon, Affleck will make Whitey movie

Damon said he would portray the alleged fugitive mob boss while Affleck directs ◗ Local casters hope scenes will be filmed here ◗ We pick our favorite choices for film's top stars

Hometown boys Ben Affleck and Matt Damon are making a movie about someone equally as famous: James "Whitey" Bulger.

Damon confirmed that he and Affleck are working on the Bulger film, according to GQ.

"We're doing a Whitey Bulger movie," Damon told GQ. "Warner's got it for us."

Damon said he will also star as Bulger, but he was not sure if he will play the young, violent alleged head of the Winter Hill gang or the older, reclusive fugitive who hid out in Santa Monica, Calif., for 16 years.

Bulger, 82, was arrested in June with longtime girlfriend Catherine Greig. Bulger is accused of 19 murders.

There are various other projects in the works, including a movie based on the book "Black Mass" that also chronicles Bulger's relationship with the FBI.

It's not clear where the movie will be filmed, but with Affleck directing, it's likely that at least some scenes will be shot in Boston, those in the local film industry said.

"Hopefully they will shoot it here. Ben Affleck has shown he loves to come back to his hometown and that he remembers us," said Angela Peri, owner of Boston Casting. She added that there will be no shortage of people offering to be extras in the film. "It'll be an interesting movie to make."

Metro's casting call

We took a look at all the players involved in Whitey Bulger's saga and tried to find the best fit among Hollywood's stars. Some got our vote for their ability to pull off a Boston accent, while others could legitimately do their part justice. Here they are:

Whitey Bulger would be played by Anthony Hopkins. Who better to play an alleged ruthless mob boss than Hannibal Lecter?

Catherine Greig, Whitey's girlfriend, would be played by Joan Rivers. They're both fans of plastic surgery.

Gangster Stephen "The Rifleman" Flemmi would be played by Steve Buscemi. We know Buscemi can hold a rifle from his role in "Billy Madison."

Gangster Kevin Weeks would be played by John C. Reilly. Weeks' often makes people laugh, as does Reilly. Plus, Reilly was in "The Perfect Storm," so he's no stranger to Beantown.

Bulger FBI informant John Connolly would be played by Lenny Clarke. He's got the hair, he's got the accent, he's got street cred by hanging with Denis Leary, what else do you need?

Attorney J. W. Carney Jr. would be played by Michael Caine: Carney's tone and proper style might be easier for a British thespian than a local actor.

Tipster Anna Bjornsdottir would be played by Bjork. We know they don't really look alike, but they're both from Iceland.

Tommy Donahue, a vocal advocate for the victim's families, would be played by Casey Affleck. This actor would need to be someone as vocal as he is — along with a thick Boston accent.

▶ Mayor Thomas Menino gave his State of the Food Union address yesterday. He brought along a box of his own vegetables he received from the Serving Ourselves Farm at Long Island Shelter.

Boston's plate full with Food Day efforts

Citing a 40 percent rate of overweight and obese Boston school children, Mayor Thomas Menino said more needs to be done to educate parents and children about better food choices.

Speaking during his first "State of the Food Union" address, Menino outlined food priorities for the city that would make Boston "the capital of good, healthy food." Those city efforts included increasing access to fresh, reasonably priced food, supporting the food economy and changing city zoning to make it easier to use urban land for food agriculture.

Menino's speech yesterday coincided with Food Day, a national effort by the Center for Science in the Public Interest to push for healthy affordable food produced in a sustainable and humane way.

The major issue, Menino said, was educating children before they are overfed advertisements for junk food and sugary drinks.

"One of the things that drives me crazy the most is driving to work in the morning and seeing [children] drinking soda and eating Doritos as they're walking to the classrooms," he said.

Menino pointed to some of the city's current programs, such as removing soda from city buildings and changing school food vendors, as examples of Boston working toward a healthier diet — but he said there was more to be done.

"I'm proud of these programs, but … we need parents, teachers and kids to make the right food choices, banks to finance programs … and hospitals and universities to make local food sourcing a priority," he said.

Closures on the Red Line: 'Tufts' luck for students

- T to conduct maintenance work for next five months
- Weekend work could keep some from going into city

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

"Shocked," "frustrated" and "wicked annoying" were just a few of the words Tufts University students used to describe news that portions of the T's Red Line will shut down during weekend hours soon.

The MBTA announced this week that beginning Nov. 5, trains north of Harvard Station won't operate Saturdays and Sundays and will be replaced with shuttle services instead.

Haunted project timing

This weekend, Oct. 29 and 30, buses will replace Red Line trains between Kendall Station and Broadway Station while MBTA crews conduct work on the Park Street Elevator Project.

Work will be going on underground to make "critical" repairs through March, according to the T.

Despite bus supplements, some students who rely on the Davis Square stop to trek into Boston were fuming when they found out.

"That sucks," said Wade Hauser, who was hearing about the lack of service for the first time. "I have friends [in the city], it'll be almost impossible to get out there and see them."

Will Glazier, a freshman, said the shuttles won't stop him from going to certain Hub spots, but it'll be "a huge pain" he will try and avoid.

"I can't see it working out very well," he said.

The announcement was even enough to keep Kate Nye, 21, away from the tracks until March.

"I doubt I'll be taking public transportation anymore," she said. "I don't want to have to deal with crowded buses and traffic congestion. It's too bad."

The Tufts student paper published an editorial criticizing the T's lack of communication with riders, calling them out for announcing the project plans just two weeks before closures.

The editorial said "trips to Boston are about to get a lot more inconvenient," but the paper sympathized with the need for the track upgrades.

Which is best?

Metro did an unofficial test to find the fastest way to from the Davis Square stop near Tufts to South Station.

Digging for earthquake survivors

Rescuers searched the rubble of collapsed buildings yesterday for survivors and victims of a major earthquake that killed at least 279 people and injured more than 1,300 in mainly Kurdish southeast Turkey.

Rescue and relief efforts focused on the city of Van and the town of Ercis, but hundreds were also feared dead in remote villages of mud-brick houses after Sunday's 7.2 magnitude quake, Turkey's strongest in a decade.

Desperate survivors cried for help beneath heaps of smashed concrete and twisted metal, some using mobile phones to tell friends they were alive, as earth-moving machines and troops raced against time.

Thousands of people made homeless by the quake were forced to spend a second night outdoors, enduring near-freezing temperatures. REUTERS

Gaddafi on display: Democracy at work?

MISRATA, LIBYA. A day after Libyans declared a "liberation" that consigned Muammar Gaddafi to the "garbage bin of history," hundreds again filed past his rotting corpse in a grim display that has raised questions about the nation's new direction.

While their Western allies were expressing quiet unease, rebel factions were still wrangling over the body and power. In Misrata yesterday, fighters handing out surgical masks against the stench were still ushering hundreds of sightseers into the chill room where the bodies of Gaddafi, his son Mo'tassim and his former army chief lay on the floor, their flesh darkening and leaking fluids. WikiLeaks blockaded

LONDON. WikiLeaks will have to stop publishing secret cables and devote itself to fundraising if it is unable to end a financial "blockade" by U.S. firms such as Visa and MasterCard by the end of the year, founder Julian Assange said yesterday.

Lifeline thrown to homeowners in over their heads

U.S. homeowners who owe more than their properties are worth got new help yesterday when a U.S. regulator expanded a government program in a step that could help up to 1 million borrowers.

The Federal Housing Finance Agency, which oversees mortgage finance giants Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, eased the terms of a refinancing program that helps so-called underwater borrowers who have been on time with payments but are unable to refinance.

The overhaul, which would only help a fraction of the 11 million underwater borrowers, is the latest effort to deal with a problem at the center of the economy's weak recovery — the crippled housing market. Officials have been frustrated that numerous efforts to bolster the market had little success.

"Such modifications are no panacea, but they would move us in the right direction for housing-related stimulus for the economy."
JANAKI RAO, VP FOR MORTGAGE RESEARCH AT MORGAN STANLEY

FHFA said it was scrapping a cap that prohibited borrowers whose mortgages exceeded 125 percent of their property's value from participating in the Home Affordable Refinance Program for loans backed by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac.

It also took steps to encourage more banks to participate and coax homeowners into shifting into shorter-term loans.

The Obama administration sees lowering mortgage payments as a way to free up cash for other spending that could help support the economy's tepid recovery, and FHFA said it wanted to focus on loans made between 2004-2008, when borrowers typically locked into rates above 5 percent. Currently, 30-year fixed mortgage rates are hovering just above 4 percent. REUTERS

Netflix feels the sting of defections

Netflix lost more customers than it anticipated in the third quarter and warned of still more defections to come — pushing its shares down almost 20 percent as the one-time Wall Street star grapples with the fallout from a price hike and other unpopular moves.

Netflix said it had lost more than 800,000 U.S. subscribers in the third quarter, more than the about 600,000 it had forecast in September. Total U.S. subscribers stood at 23.8 million. REUTERS

Ellen and Portia won't be doing babies

Ellen DeGeneres and Portia de Rossi won't be starting a family anytime soon, the talk-show host says in her new book, "Seriously ... I'm Kidding." "People are constantly asking Portia and me if we are going to have children. We thought about it. We love to be around children after they've been fed and bathed. But we ultimately decided that we don't want children of our own. There is far too much glass in our house," DeGeneres jokes, before going on to explain the the couple have a veritable menagerie of pets at their L.A. home and on their farm.

Madonna's homeless bro

Madonna's second oldest brother, Anthony Ciccone, is homeless and living under a bridge in Traverse City, Mich., he tells local news site The Michigan Messenger. "My family turned their back on me, basically, when I was having a hard time," the 55-year-old says. "You think I haven't answered this kind of question a bazillion times — why my sister is a multi-bazillionaire and I'm homeless on the street? Never say never. This could happen to anybody." Ciccone says his troubles started when he lost his job at his father's Suttons Bay winery more than a year ago.

Quit playing games with my heart, Robert Pattinson's facial hair.

These photos of the star sporting various beards and goatees over the weekend are the photographic equivalent of putting ketchup on a fine cut of filet mignon: Why ruin such perfection?

On Saturday, the star was snapped with a full beard and, might I say, horrific sunglasses (was he going for the "chubby John Lennon" look?) at the Roissy Charles de Gaulle Airport in Paris, where he met up with "Twilight" co-star Ashley Greene. The two are in town to do promotion for the latest tween blood-sucking installment of "The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn — Part 1."

Luckily, on Sunday night he cleaned up for the red carpet for the film's Paris premiere by shaving his beard down to a goatee (he also donned a sleek Dolce and Gabbana suit, which helped). That goatee, we ladies can live with. But if you go full-on Brad Pitt/Mark Twain goatee, we're going to have to talk, Robert.

Winslet: First bra, then granny

For Kate Winslet, first goes the bra, then goes the old people. It seems that in an emergency, the actress' first instinct is to cover up (she is British, after all).Winslet revealed that when she awoke on Richard Branson's private island to find the house on fire in August, she thought, "'Now what do I do?' So I ran into the bedroom and put on a bra," she says in an interview with talk-show host Graham Norton. "In disastrous moments like that, you do the strangest things. I started to put on a bra and thought, 'No, that's going to take me too long,' so off came the bra, on came the T-shirt, then I grabbed the children and I picked up granny." Winslet is credited for carrying Branson's 90-year-old mother, Eve, to safety as the compound was destroyed by the blaze.

CONSIDER FILING FOR BANKRUPTCY

By Robert Josephs

I'm going to be blunt in this piece. These are difficult times. We, the consumers, need to use common sense. In the past, I've used this space to warn about the debt settling scam, and sound the alarm about unlicensed collection agencies. I hope that my words have helped. But now, I'm going be more direct: If you're in serious financial difficulty, consider filing for bankruptcy.

After watching the financial news and the politics in Congress, one can see that the banks and the politicians aren't going to help you. We've seen the banks take billions of dollars in government bailouts, yet continue to exploit and violate the consumer with high interest credit cards, and by making the refinancing of homes difficult. That's hypocrisy in action. Unfortunately, the politicians are either too scared or too compromised to meaningfully reform financial and banking laws. Don't expect Washington to help you.

Famous publisher Ralph Ingersoll stated, "we are against people who push other people around just for the fun of pushing. We are against fraud and deceit and greed and cruelty and we seek to expose their practitioners." This quote is the essence of why I practice law. Give some thought to taking advantage of one of the last true consumer protection laws left, the Bankruptcy Code. I'll be more than happy to discuss the protections of bankruptcy with you. Thank you.

Valdettaro & Josephs is a debt relief agency. We help people file for bankruptcy relief under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. (617) 522-3200.

Claim one for yourself

The latest in the young adult series 'Beautiful Creatures' takes you into a magical world of mystique

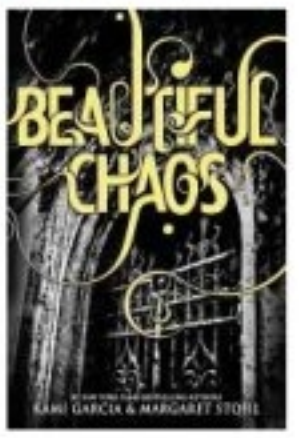
Now that Harry Potter is no more, authors everywhere are trying to out-charm one another with their own brand of literary magic to fill that mystical, money-making void. Amidst the chaos are best friends and co-authors Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl, whose own young adult saga, "Beautiful Creatures," is battling its way to the top. The series, in the fictional southern town of Gatlin during the Civil War era, is an epic tale chronicling the forbidden love between Ethan and Lena, which suffers from Ethan's "curse."

In their third installment, "Beautiful Chaos," out now, Garcia and Stohl bring more dark powers and twisty plot lines to the books. In fact, the whole series has been a thrilling tale filled with danger and drama — yet at the same time, it's beautifully poetic (they use a great deal of classic poems and literary quotes).

Quoted

"The stakes are higher now, both for the characters and the universe as a whole. Throughout the book, readers will see this sense of urgency as the people of Gatlin now have to deal with the aftermath of what has happened previously." STOHL

The plot



In "Beautiful Chaos," Ethan Lawson Wate and Lena Duchannes come back to Gatlin after their last adventure to the magical world, where Lena changed the universe when she claimed herself to be both a Light and Dark Caster (in mortal words: she has become a both good and evil magician).

This is due to the authors' immense love and appreciation for classic literature.

"We love all the great classics and the poems; and when we are writing, it feels natural to add them into our story," Garcia explains. "They have been a great influence."

A healthy dose of classic literature is not the only motif dominant in the "Beautiful Creatures" series. The themes of rejection and acceptance are constantly explored, examined and elaborated.

"Adults still feel like teenagers trying to fit in, and the pressure is even greater for the teenagers. They are afraid of being rejected and are always trying to find a place in their own lives," Stohl says.

"So we want to send them a message to 'claim yourself' and just be the person you really are," Garcia adds.

Stars all swashed up

‘The Three Musketeers’ returns, this time in 3-D and with floating air ships ‘The movie doesn’t take itself seriously,’ says co-star Bloom

“The Three Musketeers” are back again, but this time, we get “action fresh and modern for the younger audience,” according to director and co-producer Paul W.S. Anderson, the man behind the “Resident Evil” saga.

“I felt that every generation ought to get its own version of ‘The Three Musketeers’ – one that reflects of that particular decade,” he says of the 1844 classic by Alexandre Dumas. So in essence: a new cast, some peppy dialogue and novel visual effects — all in trendy 3-D.

Anderson’s “stellar ensemble cast” has some degree of critical acclaim: Logan Lerman, who leads as D’Artagnan, is coming-of-age in Hollywood, having appeared in “Percy Jackson.” Among the bad guys, Oscar-winner Christoph Waltz plays the conniving Richelieu, and actor Orlando Bloom appears as the dastardly Duke of Buckingham. D’Artagnan and his buddy Musketeers must protect the King of France from those two maniacs.

“The movie doesn’t take itself seriously,” Bloom confesses. “This is a fun, ‘go buy a big bag of popcorn and take a trip’ version of the movie. It’s not a historically accurate retelling of ‘The Three Musketeers.’” Bloom’s Duke, with his hyperreal pompadour coif and garish frill-necked outfits, seems an epitome of the movie’s self-caricature. Even the Musketeers prefer to guzzle booze than spruce themselves up for action.

“I don’t know why we didn’t get the theme music from [the ’80s cartoon] ‘Dogtanian and the Three Muskehounds’” Macfadyen jokes. “What’s more, I had a pang of jealousy for Orlando’s costumes.”

“All for one, and one for all — it does exactly what it says on the tin,” says Bloom, adding: “and it has a gigantic air ship.”

Make it way up this Halloween

- Want to be these divas?
- You'll need some pro tips
- We checked in with MAC senior artist Jane McKay

Costume: 'Pan Am' stewardess

Signature feature: 1960s corals

"In the '60s we had these lavenders and greens and blues and corals," explains McKay of the era's color palette. "When you look at these 'Pan Am' blue uniforms, the '60s coral really plays off of it." The lips are a nice place to start: Try something like MAC's Soft Shell lipcreme topped with a little gloss applied only in the center of the lip to catch the light.

Finish the look: For star Christina Ricci's eyes, you'll want a modest-length false eyelash along with black liner and a gold shadow. "It's a beautiful, corporate evening look," says McKay.

Costume: Nicki Minaj

Signature feature: Hot-pink lips

"Everyone looks fantastic in pink, and she for-sure knows that," says McKay. "What Nicki does is she likes to use a hot, light pink lipstick framed with a lip pencil, topped with pink lip glass."

Finish the look: You're not done with the color wheel yet. Pop a bright shade on the eye (such as an electric green or even a white) and go for a brighter pink blush than you'd usually wear.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

Costume: Smurfette

Signature feature: Blue skin

Our girl Smurfette requires a lot of blue, so McKay recommends staying away from the cheap, oily makeups at the Halloween megastores and using a professional product that won't break down halfway through your first Reese Cup (MAC carries a super-blue paint stick in cyan). Then, set it with an invisible powder applied with the biggest brush in your arsenal.

Finish the look: A truly successful Smurfette happens in the eyes. While it's going to take a little practice to paint on those big ol' whites, McKay points out that her signature lashes are fairly simple. Buy the longest false lashes on the market, separate into three chunks and apply to your eye's outer corner.

We have always been at war ...

RE: "OBAMA HATES AMERICA?": Thank you! That was just what I needed to start off the week: A good laugh. It's nice to know that we still have people creative enough to write old-fashioned Orwellian double-speak.
KARL HUFFMAN, BOSTON

I couldn't help but notice that the rich are actually writing letters to Metro these days! Lets look at Mr. Dupont, for example: He's reduced to making wild, exaggerated accusations about our president instead of helping us find solutions to this lopsided wealth issue! But that's exactly what we're going to see more of. The wealthy defending themselves by posing as normal citizens that don't agree with OWS!
VICTOR ROBINSON, VIA E-MAIL

Protesters are not legislators

RE: "DEMANDS: YES OR NO?": To those who say that the Occupy Wall Street movement should suggest improvements to the economic system, I would quote that celebrated conservative Samuel Johnson: "You may scold a carpenter who has made you a bad table, though you cannot make a table. It is not your trade to make tables."
ROBERT B. PIERCE, MALDEN

Why the bias against OWS?

RE: "HAVES, HAVE NOTS OF OCCUPY": Metro's biased coverage of Occupy is embarrassing. Any organization that attracted thousands of dollars in four weeks should be acknowledged as a mainstream movement. But Metro describes the donations as "handouts."
JAMES M. WILTON, VIA E-MAIL

About time for a third party

OWS is a sign that we need a third political party. It looks like Democrats and Republicans have the same lobbyists — so why vote?
WILLY MACHAN, VIA E-MAIL

Show respect to the people

RE: "PROTESTS LIGHTING A FIRE": Wow, Michael McGovern thinks the Occupy protesters should set themselves on fire? How can he waste all that hate by directing it toward people who are trying to make the world a better place? JEN GORDON, VIA E-MAIL

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. In order to use your imagination to visualize successful outcomes, you'll have to wipe out all pessimistic thoughts that attempt to disrupt you.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. When it comes to a competitive situation in which you're involved, you have two big benefits going for you. One is your persistence, and the other is the crowd rooting for you.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Be a joiner, because it'll be some kind of joint endeavor that is likely to hold the greatest promise for you. Expand your efforts to include as many people as possible.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. In order to make sure a partnership situation works out well, each party must be prepared to contribute to the effort. Stop worrying about how much the other is doing, and do your part.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Your earning possibilities will be proportionate to your contribution. If you want to make more money, figure out what you can do to bring this about.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Don't let slip any chance to further enhance a relationship that's extremely important to you. Seize with alacrity anything that can fortify what you already have going.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. You'll never be better equipped than you are at present to finalize a tedious project that has been a prolonged source of irritation. Get that unpleasant task out of the way once and for all.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. It's possible that you'll find yourself in a unique position to convey some critical information. Take advantage of what may never happen again.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. It's important to find the right key that'll motivate others to take a close look at a project or idea you're eager to promote. Come up with a material or emotional trigger to put the posteriors in the seats. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Check in at the Otesaga resort and let the relaxation begin. This historic hotel was built in 1909 and offers fine dining, grand ballrooms, a lounge, an 18-hole golf course, a heated pool and a terrace overlooking Lake Otsego. The hotel was once used as a school for girls and is said to be haunted with the pitter-patter of little feet and the laughter of children. "Ghost Hunters" once paid a visit to the resort and deemed the third and fifth floors to have the most supernatural presence. Don't worry though — they're said to be friendly spirits.

▶ The Otesaga is a AAA Four Diamond resort.

Eat like an aristocrat

Eat in Otesaga's main dining room for a formal five-course experience with dishes like New Zealand rack of lamb or veal Osso Bucco. Or head down to the Hawkeye Bar & Grill for Seafood Fra Diavlo or a casual burger and fries. Enjoy live music and dancing into the late night hours at Templeton Lounge.

Drink like a Belgian

Spend the afternoon tasting Belgian beers at Brewery Ommegang. Sample a range of ales from the light and crisp Witte to the dark and spicy Abbey. See how the beer is made on a tour or snack on moules and frites in the newly built Cafe Ommegang.

Get spooked

Head to the Farmer's Museum after dark for their Things That Go Bump in the Night ghost tour. You can also take a walking candlelight ghost tour through Cooperstown and hear the eerie history of the town's oldest homes. Tourgoers will walk through the Christ Episcopal Church Graveyard. Make sure you look up into the trees!

Revolution, Nicol on outs after 10 years

After 10 years, 301 games and four trips to the MLS Cup final, Steve Nicol is out as New England Revolution head coach.

The club and the coach "mutually decided to part ways" in a meeting yesterday, the team said in a statement.

"We all agreed a change of direction was needed to reverse the trend of the past couple of years," owner Jonathan Kraft said. "Stevie was a successful head coach and a tremendous ambassador for the Revolution for the past decade."

Nicol, whose tenure with the Revs is the longest by a coach with a single team in MLS history, led the team to the league's championship game in 2002, '05, '06 and '07. But New England fell just short of the ultimate prize each time.

▶ Nicol

He coached 301 games (112-108-81), the second-most in MLS history. He ranks fourth all-time in coaching wins.

Nicol was a successful pro player for 20 years, including a 14-year stint with Liverpool in England. METRO

▶ Owens

Not much 'go' for Pats, TO

Terrell Owens is working out for NFL teams today. It doesn't sound like the Patriots are licking their chops over adding another aging wideout.

"He is no different than a lot of the players that have been on the street," personnel czar Nick Caserio said. "We'll evaluate those players, who is available, look at our situation and make a determination." METRO

Bruins idle until Thursday

The Bruins have a few more days to work the kinks out of their up-and-down start to 2011-12.

The B's, who last took the ice for a 4-2 loss to San Jose on Saturday, don't play again until Thursday, when they host the Canadiens. METRO

Can't look past the Pittsburgh offense

Wallace, Mendenhall, Miller and Ward proving potent weapons for QB Roethlisberger It's 3 yards and a cloud of dust no longer in Steel City

When it comes to the Pittsburgh Steelers, it's easy to gravitate towards preparing for that famed "Steel Curtain" defense.

But the Patriots might be better served this week by spending their time worrying about the Steelers offense.

Take Pittsbugh wide receiver Mike Wallace. New England has faced its fair share of lethal wideouts this season, but all of them pale in comparison to the 2011 version of Wallace. Through seven games, he's come up with 735 yards and five touchdowns.

"He's a big-play receiver," coach Bill Belichick said. "He's really fast. Nobody is going to catch him, so you have to be careful about how much space he gets when he catches the ball.

"I think he's improved a lot from when we played them last year, just as a football player, his patience and route technique."

And if it's not Wallace you're watching out for, it's running back Rashard Mendenhall. Or tight end Heath Miller. Or veteran wideout Hines Ward.

"They utilize a lot of different personnel groups and different people within those groups, so they give you a lot of different looks and they have a lot of good players," Belichick said.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Ben Roethlisberger and Mike Wallace have been an effective pair this season.

It's those players who've made Ben Roethlisberger so impressive of late.

He's thrown for nine touchdowns in his last three games — including his best performance of the season in Sunday's 32-20 win over the Cardinals, when he threw for 361 yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions.

The rushing days of Jerome Bettis and Kordell Stewart are gone. Roethlisberger has proven that he can get it done through the air.

"Their offense has definitely changed with Roethlisberger, as it should relative to what they did with, let's say, when Kordell Stewart was the quarterback," Belichick said.

"Two totally different type players."

USC QB: Irish are quitters

Notre Dame gave up toward the end of Saturday's 31-17 loss to USC, Trojans QB Matt Barkley said yesterday. The Irish didn't use any timeouts during USC's slow final drive. "It seemed from our sideline and our perspective that they did give up," Barkley said yesterday. METRO

Phillies drop two pitchers

The Phillies yesterday declined 2012 options on SP Roy Oswalt and RP Brad Lidge.

Oswalt (9-10, 3.69 ERA this year) is due a $2 million buyout instead of $16 million. Lidge will get $1.5M instead of $12.5M.

New Sox GM official today

GETTY IMAGES

The Red Sox will introduce Ben Cherington as their new general manager at a 3 p.m. news conference at Fenway Park, the team announced yesterday.

Cherington, a 37-year-old New Hampshire native, is taking over the job from Theo Epstein, who's set to finally take the reins as the Chicago Cubs' president of baseball operations.

Cherington has been an assistant GM since 2009, and briefly served as co-GM with Jed Hoyer in 2005.

His first jobs will be finishing a compensation package for Epstein and finding a new manager.

The Cubs, meanwhile, plan to introduce Epstein at noon today. The former Sox boss reportedly visited his new office at Wrigley Field yesterday, then went to lunch with a number of team staffers at Chicago's Vines on Clark.

Hoyer is expected to leave his current job with the Padres to serve as GM in Chicago.
